Friendswood Farmers Market Scheduled for November 7 at Stevenson Park

The Friendswood Farmers Market's recurring schedule places its next market on Saturday, November 7, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. at Stevenson Park. Organizers describe a rain-or-shine open-air market with a range of product categories, though November vendors and their offerings have not been announced.

Friendswood residents looking for a Saturday outing can put the Friendswood Farmers Market on their calendar for November 7. The market's website says it takes place on the first Saturday of each month except January and July; November 7, 2026, is the month's first Saturday.

The listed hours are 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Stevenson Park parking lot, 1000 S. Friendswood Drive. Organizers describe the market as open air and say it operates rain or shine.

The market's website describes a mix of baked goods, fresh produce, meats, coffee, flowers and other offerings. Those are general categories, not a confirmed November vendor list: organizers have not identified this month's vendors or said which products will be available on November 7. Shoppers interested in a particular item should check the market's official website for any updates rather than assume it will be there.

Beyond shopping, the organizers say the market brings together local businesses, organizations and performers. A local nonprofit is invited each month, but no November partner or performer has been announced on the site. The market also accepts vendor applications year-round, offering an avenue for interested sellers to apply without suggesting that an application guarantees a place at any particular market.

For residents, a monthly market can be a straightforward way to browse local offerings and spend part of a Saturday in the community. The November schedule makes the date and hours useful starting points for planning; details about specific vendors and activities remain subject to what organizers announce.
